8.Breed Health – The Hungarian Vizsla is a generally healthy breed however as with any breed of dog there are some health conditions that have been observed to be more prevalent in this breed you can read about them on this breed specific health website www.vizslahealth.net
The current recommendations from the UK Kennel Club are that Breeding dogs should be hip/elbow scored and eye tested prior to breeding we undertake this on all our breeding dogs.
In addition to these requirements, we also voluntarily test our breeding stock for ECLE, Cerebellar Ataxia, HUU and we have our breeding dogs checked for audible heart rhythm abnormalities all our breeding dogs are Clear/Normal
Copies of certification for tests done on your puppy's parents are supplied in your puppy pack.

There are some conditions we cannot test for are things such as but not limited to Epilepsy, VIP, MMM, IBD, IMHA, IMT and other autoimmune conditions, we do not breed from dogs that are physically affected at or prior to the time of breeding. We keep inbreeding coefficient low to minimise risk associated with high levels of inbreeding, but we can never guarantee that a puppy we breed will not go on to be physically affected or produce an affected offspring during their lifetime.

By purchasing a Vizsla you are accepting that there is a risk your dog could be affected by a health condition at some point in their life.

The breeder/seller will not be held responsible for any financial loss or distress incurred by the owner due to the ill health of the dog.

You are strongly advised to avail yourselves of appropriate insurance to cover unexpected veterinary costs through accident or illness.
